Perdeblokke Sauvignon Blanc

Vintage	2025
---------	------

General

The nose opens with a gentle reductive edge, offering flinty notes of wet stone and crushed slate. Citrus-driven aromas of grapefruit and gooseberry bring brightness, while a subtle depth adds an appealing sense of weight. The profile is tightly focused and streamlined, carrying a clear sense of direction. Judicious oak integration lends a quiet complexity without intruding on the wine's purity.

On the palate, the wine is precise and composed, marked by a distinct mineral thread and vibrant lime zest. There is a confident structure and a sense of restraint, giving the wine both elegance and definition. The finish is sustained and polished, leaving a lasting impression of freshness, finesse, and balance.

Description

Bright and strawlike in appearance. The nose opens with clementine, floral lift, and citrus zest, underpinned by subtle notes of lemongrass and fynbos. The palate is linear and precise, driven by a charming acidity and a textured mid-palate of tart apple. Crisp, elegant, and focused, the wine lingers with a long, saline finish.

Grape variety	100% Sauvignon Blanc

Wine record

The vineyard is harvested at 4o'clock in the morning in order to preserve the freshness of the grapes. It is divided into 2 sections; one East facing and the other South facing. Grapes from each block are fermented and vinified separately allowing each to express their unique style and true terroir. The wine underwent natural fermentation initially in tank, followed by oak. It was left on the lees for a period of 20% New French Oak before blending and bottling. Perdeblokke is a selection of the 5 best barrels that make up the final blend.
